families at risk. Recipients include teen mothers, the homeless and those living in poverty. Each newborn will receive a collection of new and gently used baby clothing, receiving blankets, bottles and any vital equipment, such as strollers, portacribs and car seats as needed to ensure that they thrive.

Items are collected through solicitation to the community at large for gently used items and financial support and from corporate sponsors. Volunteers collect, sort and clean the items and prepare giveaways for the families in need.

Through collaboration with social service agencies, hospitals, homeless shelters, safe havens, schools and family court, new mothers at risk are identified. Those agencies request the essential items and, upon receipt, distribute to their clients.

Participating agencies include Courtney Children's Foundation, Dept. of Welfare and Supportive Services, WIC, Nevada Partnership for Homeless Youth, CASA, Catholic Charities, Urban League and many others.
